CHARGES EXPRESS MONOPOLY IN JERSEY

Railroads and Companies Combine to Keep Up Rates.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 14.—That express companies operate with railroads to the monopoly of trade is the charge of the state railroad commission in the case of the appeal of the Elizabeth board of trade for a ruling in the matter of the Adams Express company operating exclusively on the Pennsylvania railroad at that point and the United States Express company operating solely over the Central railroad at that point, the allegation being that the companies and the railroads combine to keep up express rates.

The commission finds this true, as far as it can investigate, and says that in its annual report attention will be called to this existing condition and the legislature will be asked to pass laws stopping such work.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE HERE

Franklin County Man Convicted of Pointing a Gun, Skips to Gettysburg and Friends have to Forfeit $500 Bail.

"Abe" Barnes, a frequent participant in Franklin County Court matters, failed to appear when called for sentence in that Court and developments show that he came to Gettysburg where he stayed for a short while before proceeding on his way.

Barnes was convicted in Franklin County Court of pointing a gun at Special Game Warden, P. F. McGarvey.

The warden testified that in October, near Glen Furney, he met Barnes and demanded that he show him what kind of game he had on him. Barnes refused and, using threatening language, pointed his gun at him. McGarvey jumped behind a stone fence. Barnes left. Later that day he met Barnes and Barnes again threatened him.

When an effort was made to get Barnes for sentence he was found to be absent and investigation showed that he had come to Gettysburg. Later, it is said, he was seen at Edgemont on his way to Hagerstown where he has relatives.

Barnes is said to be unusually keen for a man without education and always affords interesting times when called as a witness.

His bondsmen were forced to forfeit $500 for his non appearance for sentence.

BUSY DAYS FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Members of Newly Formed Organization Buy Furnishings for Rooms. Reading Matter to be Supplied. Liberal Subscriptions.

That the members of Gettysburg's newly organized Young Men's Christian Association are thoroughly in earnest was fully shown at their second business meeting held on Monday evening in their rooms on Baltimore street.

Several of the committees reported on the result of soliciting funds for the association and out of a few squares over $50.00 was reported as having been subscribed or paid in cash. Numbers of business men are yet to be seen and after all of the funds are in, it is believed they will be found sufficient to pay for a comfortable furnishing of the rooms and other expenses.

A committee was appointed at the meeting to purchase floor covering and chairs at once for the reading room and parlor of the place and in a few days they will be ready for use. A number of pieces of furniture and other things have been donated, for all of which votes of thanks were passed.

A second committee was appointed to secure a list of periodicals to submit at the next meeting for ratification. It is the purpose of the members to fill their reading room with the best newspapers and magazines obtainable and the rooms will soon be most attractive. Already several daily paper subscriptions have been donated to the rooms.

There are four rooms in the suite, the two above mentioned, one which will be used for meetings and another for gymnasium purposes.

Several new members were admitted at Monday night's meeting and a large number of others are expected to join during the next few weeks.

While Mr. and Mrs. David Ruths residing in the vicinity of Lake Royer, near the Cascade post office, were driving along an old woods road leading back to the lake, they discovered a horse hitched to a tree, and nearby was a stick wagon and a blanket.

The horse was in a starved condition and had probably been hitched to the tree for a week. One thing is certain, it had remained tied to the tree since Tuesday of last week, as a blanket that had been left behind by the party, or parties leaving it there, was frozen, which showed that the blanket had been made wet by the rain that fell on that day.

The horse was a bay pony and had white feet and when found, had eaten all the bark, leaves and bushes within the radius of its hitching post.

The animal was taken in charge by Mr. Ruths, fed and comfortably housed in a stable at his home.

BALLINGER AND LAND FRAUDS

Was Active in Pressing the Alaska Claims.

SENATOR HEYBURN ALSO IN IT

Collier's Weekly Declares White Ballinger Was Commissioner of Land Office He Shut His Eyes to Claring Frauds and Urged Legislation to Legalize Claims.

New York, Dec. 14.—Under the caption "Can This Be Whitewashed Also?" Collier's Weekly repeats its charges against Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger in the alleged Alaska conspiracy to control the copper and coal output.

After giving a history of the exploiting of the Alaska gold mines by Washington politicians, Collier's says: "It is common knowledge throughout Alaska and the west generally that the Morgan interests are allied with the Guggenheim mining interests, and that the same financial forces are allied with the Hill railroad interests. In the confession of S. A. D. Puter, king of the Oregon land fraud ring, convicted by Heney, Puter charged that during Ballinger's short term as commissioner of the general land office, Northern Pacific land patents by the wholesale were issued. He also stated that the general land office, under the Ballinger and Dennett administration, shut its eyes to glaring land frauds in Oregon."

"As far back as Aug. 13, 1907, Special Agent Horace T. Jones reported to Richard A. Ballinger, commissioner of the general land office: 'From the talk of different attorneys and individuals interested in the Alaska coal lands, I feel that the disposal of the lands all tends toward one direction, and that is: the Guggenheim companies. The papers here in Portland, Ore., are full of the news that the Guggenheims are constructing railroads near Katalla, Alaska, for the purpose of taking out the oil, minerals, etc., and there is an advertisement in the said papers for the employment of 2000 men to go to Katalla, Alaska, and work for the Guggenheims.' Katalla is the location of the Cunningham claims. Under date of December, 1907, Cunningham's books show the receipt of $1359.60, with this notation: 'The above sum was received from Daniel Guggenheim (head of the Guggenheim syndicate), in full for expenses incurred on account of the examination of coal lands on his account.'"

"We have in a former article referred to the fact that Commissioner Ballinger appeared before the house committee on public lands and urged the passage of the Cole bill, which, had it passed, would have made the Cunningham claims legal. With Ballinger there appeared one Donald R. McKenzie."

"In October, 1908, in Portland, Ore., after Ballinger had ceased all connection with the land office, and while the presidential campaign was on—Ballinger spoke to Glavis of the difficulty of raising campaign funds. He told Glavis that some of the Cunningham claimants had contributed freely in previous campaigns, but were unwilling to do so at that time on account of the investigation of their claims, and urged Glavis not to prosecute his investigations further until after election."

"In his written report to President Taft at Beverly, Glavis stated that a number of the Alaska coal claimants 'are men prominent in the state of Washington, and many of them are personal friends of Mr. Ballinger.'"

Ballinger and Heyburn.

"Clarence Cunningham lived at Wallace, Idaho, at the time he first became interested in the Cunningham claims. Wallace is the chief town of the Coeur d'Alene mining region. By a sort of financial manipulation the Guggenheims control the lead output of the Coeur d'Alenes. Wallace is the residence of Senator W. B. Heyburn, of Idaho. Cunningham and Heyburn are, and have been for years, friends."

"Senator Heyburn was, at the time of his election to the United States senate, the leading attorney at Wallace for some of the large Coeur d'Alene mine interests. After the hearing on the Cole bill Senator Heyburn, on April 23, 1908, introduced in the senate another bill which would have legalized the Cunningham claims, and which would have passed but for the intervention of Secretary Garfield. In Washington Heyburn and Ballinger appear to have acted in concert. In our issue of Aug. 23 last we made reference to a sort of political partnership between Heyburn and Ballinger in certain land matters. It is unlawful for a United States senator to act as attorney for persons interested in urging claims before the departments at Washington. It was for this offense that Senator Burton, of Kansas, and Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, were tried and convicted. Senator Heyburn was elected senator from Idaho Jan. 13, 1903. In Cunningham's books, under date of September, 1903, nine months after Heyburn's election as senator there is an entry which reads as follows: 'Have agreed with W. B. Heyburn, in consideration for his services as attorney, to carry him for one claim of 160 acres in the coal, free of cost to him, and he agrees to do all on

"When Cunningham, on Sept. 4, 1908, made his affidavit, he knew these records were in possession of the department officials. Glavis had forwarded them with a letter calling attention to the Heyburn entry. 'Is really Cunningham, Ballinger and Heyburn, with Burton and Mitchell in mind, had a terrific scare. In his affidavit, prepared by Ballinger, Cunningham attempted to explain away many things. He quoted a letter from Senator Heyburn, dated Oct. 20, 1905, to himself, in which Heyburn declares that he has frequently stated to Cunningham that he did not desire to be interested in the coal lands in Alaska, and now writes expressly to inform him again that he 'does not desire to participate in, or be interested in any manner, directly or indirectly, in acquiring public lands.' Was this letter written after Glavis got possession of Cunningham's records? And did Heyburn's withdrawal as an attorney have anything to do with the present employment of his nephew, John P. Gray, of Wallace, as an attorney for the Cunningham claimants?"

Ballinger's Many Clients.

"When Ballinger represented Cunningham, he represented all the Cunningham claims. Not only this, but the record is thick with the evidence of his employment by other Alaska coal claimants at different times. Under date of Dec. 23, 1908, a little over two months before he took office as secretary of the Interior, Ballinger wrote to the register and receiver of the United States land office at Juneau, Alaska, saying that he represented W. G. Whorf, whose entry was known as coal survey No. 335. On Jan. 7, 1909, less than sixty days before Ballinger became secretary of the Interior, M. A. Green, who represents another Alaska coal syndicate, wrote to John W. Dudley, register of the Juneau, Alaska, land office: 'I submitted this scrip to Judge Ballinger as my lawyer, and he has approved the same, saying it was regular in every way, so I bought it and paid for it, and am sending it forward to you at this time.'"

"Under date of April 19, 1909—six weeks after Ballinger took the oath of office as secretary of the Interior—Walter M. French, of the law firm of Allen & French, of Seattle, wrote John W. Dudley, register of the Juneau land office: 'Mr. Harriman, whom I represent, has on several occasions taken the matter of sale up with Judge Ballinger, whose firm represented the purchasers, and with Mr. Hartline, and the parties have at all times seemed to be in perfect accord.'"

Mr. Taft's Letter.

"This disposes of the question of Ballinger's single employment by one claimant, so innocently stated by President Taft. Out of over a possible thousand lawyers in Seattle, Ballinger seems to have had a monopoly of syndicated Alaska coal clients. And who shall say that these clients were altogether lacking in sagacity?"

"Immediately after the statement in the president's letter that Ballinger did only a little work for one claimant is this further statement: 'The evidence in respect to which you were consulted professionally was not secured by Mr. Glavis until after your resignation as commissioner of the general land office.' There is not even a 'shred of suspicion' upon which to base this statement. The president was cruelly imposed upon, and he in turn unwittingly deceived the public."

"The president also refers to the fact that Glavis was allowed to remain in charge of the claims, notwithstanding Ballinger was aware of his attitude as to their fraudulent character. As a matter of fact, the claims were not taken from Glavis, simply because it was feared he would do just what finally he did—go elsewhere for justice."

TELLS COURT HIS CLIENT IS A FOOL

Believes in Spirits, Fairies and Clairvoyants.

New York, Dec. 14.—"Your honor, my client is a gullible fool, who believes in spirits and fairies," said Abbe Levy, a lawyer, before Magistrate O'Connor in the West Side police court. Mrs. Marie Brandes, the client referred to, nodded her head in assent.

"Yes, I am a fool," she said. "I am ashamed to say that I believed that a clairvoyant or medium could exert a kind of hypnotic influence over my husband so that he would grant me a divorce."

This amusing testimony was brought out when Mrs. Brandes appeared as complainant against Della Goff, a trained nurse, and Jacob Lamenendorf, an employment agent, to whom she says she paid $10,000 for the novel purpose described. Failing to obtain the divorce, she had them arrested, charged with larceny.

Army Officer Pleads Guilty to Theft.

New York, Dec. 14.—Captain Thomas Franklin, U. S. A., who pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court of embezzling government money and presenting false vouchers for approval while stationed at West Point as commissary and treasurer from 1902 to 1907, was sentenced by Judge Hand to serve two years and six months in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 14.—Death removed probably the only case of leprosy in the United States army, when First Sergeant C. O. Mix, of the Second company, Coast artillery, died in his lonely cottage on the Fort Screven reservation. The body will be buried with military honors in the national cemetery.

Baby Born With Four Teeth.

AMAZED AT DR. JONNESCO

Story of His Anesthetic Stirs Philadelphia Doctors.

SHOWS HOW TO DEADEN PAIN

Roumanian Shows Photograph of Himself Under Influence of Stovaine and Strychnine Being Operated Upon by His Assistant.

Philadelphia, Dec. 14.—Dr. Thomas Jonnesco, Roumanian surgeon, whose method of using stovaine safely as an anesthetic by adding strychnine is stirring the medical world, came to this city, and before an audience of physicians and medical students at the University of Pennsylvania he explained and illustrated the use of this remarkable alleviation of human suffering.

His story was brief. He told it with modesty and with restraint. He claimed no honor. He said that he came to show, not to teach. He confined himself entirely to an exposition of the application of his anesthetic and to a display of patients under its influence on the operating table. He had finished the entire lecture and illustrations in less than an hour.

Doctors Are Amazed.

But when he had concluded and hurried from the amphitheater the physicians and the students who had heard his story burst into a perfect thunder of applause. Some of them rubbed their eyes and laughed outright at the sheer daring and wonder of that which they had seen. It was scarcely to be believed that such things could be, but they had seen it with their own eyes.

They had seen photographed before them patients lying upon the operating table, with the surgeon's keen knife piercing their bodies—and laughter actually played over the faces of those patients. Under the influence of Dr. Jonnesco's anesthetic these patients were undergoing all sorts of operations while they were in a perfectly happy, conscious, comfortable state.

Their eyes were open. Many of them were actually watching the surgeon as he plied his instruments about their vital organs.

They had apparently felt no pain as the anesthetic was being administered. They were feeling no pain as the operation was progressing. They would feel absolutely no pain after the conclusion of the operation.

Perhaps most incredible of all was a series of photographs displayed by Dr. Jonnesco, showing his assistant at the University of Bucharest actually performing an operation upon himself. The first pictures disclosed the Roumanian doctor, under the influence of the anesthetic, sitting up on an operating table cutting an incision in his own abdomen in an operation for hernia. His face was the picture of contentment, and he seemed absorbed only in the professional interest which he took in the operation. There was no hint of pain.

Dr. Jonnesco firmly believes that this method of analgesia, or deadening of pain, will ultimately be universally adopted. He has declared that he anticipated plenty of opposition, because of the startling nature of his discovery, but that he was convinced that it would gradually disappear.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 14.—Watching over the bodies of her father and mother under the impression that they were asleep, Mary Flynn, twenty years old and feeble minded, was found in a cold room in the Flynn home in Cambridgeport.

The only traces of food in the house were a few tea grounds in a cup. "Dead from privation" was the verdict of the medical examiner.

BEAR INVADERS A TOWN

Bold Bruin Walks Streets of Ridgway, Pa., Frightening Women and Men.
Ridgway, Pa., Dec. 14.—The residents of the Third ward were startled when a big black bear calmly walked down from Boot Jack mountain and through the most thickly populated section of the town. Women on the street who spied bruin r. screaming out to the nearest houses. Leaving the street, the bear strolled over to the Eagle Valley tannery, where he badly frightened several of the employees who were at work on the bark piles.

By this time a number of men had heard of the bear's meanderings about town, procured guns and started in pursuit. Something startled bruin out of his quiet gait and he made for Mill creek, where he attempted to cross on the ice. The crust was too thin, however, and he broke through in several places, but the pursuers were too close for him to turn back, and after floundering through the ice and shallow water for several yards he reached the opposite bank and made off into the woods.
The chase was kept up for several hours, but the bear escaped.

CRITTENTON WILLED FORTUNE TO MISSION He Also Bequeathed $200,000 to Employees.

New York, Dec. 14.—The will of Charles N. Crittenton, the wholesale druggist and founder of the Florence Crittenton missions for women, girls and children, who died in California on Nov. 16, was filed for probate here and leaves half the entire residuary estate (over $2,000,000) for the benefit of the missions, and divides a large part of the other half among eight old employees, most of whom are officers of Mr. Crittenton's firm, the C. N. Crittenton company, 115 Fulton street.
The law firm which filed the will declined to give any estimate of the value of the estate, but it was said that it was worth between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000, and that the gifts of Mr. Crittenton to his employees are worth at least $200,000.

Out of one part of his residuary estate the testator directs that bequests of between $500 and $1000 each be made to nephews and nieces. He gives his brother, William M. Crittenton, only $1000.
To all male employees who have been with the Crittenton company for over ten years the testator leaves $5000, to be divided according to the salaries received by the employee last year. Those who have been with the firm over five years divide $2000 equally. To all the women employees the testator leaves $3000 in proportion to their salaries.

KING LEOPOLD DEAR DEATH

Belgian Monarch Knows He Is Dying.

SUFFERS GREAT PAIN

Tells Members of His Family He Fears the End Near and Bids Farewell to Court Officials—Daughter Louise Pleads for Final Interview.

Brussels, Dec. 14.—Fully conscious, but in a state of extreme physical weakness, King Leopold of Belgium lies expecting death. Extreme unction has been administered to him at his own request in the presence of Crown Prince Albert, Crown Princess Albert and two daughters of the dying man.

Reports from the palace say that the aged ruler is calm and shows not the slightest fear for the future. While suffering excruciating pain, he bears up with remarkable fortitude and displays a courage that is admirable.

He greeted his physicians with perfect serenity and to one of them said: "I am going to make a long journey soon."

Later to a member of his family who stood by his bedside he remarked: "I fear my end is near."

The king uttered no complaints and has discussed his private affairs with a notary. In spite of protests on the part of his family, he insisted upon attempting to deal with some affairs of state.

He bade farewell to a number of court officials, notably the court marshal, Count Doultemont, to whom he said: "You have served me well for more than twenty years and I want to give you my thanks before I die. I am very grateful to you."

The count was greatly agitated and left the room weeping bitterly.
The most affecting interview was that between the king and his favorite daughter, Clementine. He kissed her a number of times and tried to console her. She was terribly distressed and was led away half fainting.

It is reported that his eldest daughter, Louise, from whom he has been estranged, has telegraphed asking for a final interview, but it is not even known that a reply has been sent.
Thus far the physicians in attendance have been able only to reduce the acuteness of the royal patient's pain. The intestinal obstruction which lies at the root of the king's illness has not been relieved, and unless this is accomplished the surgeons will reluctantly perform an operation with the forlorn hope of saving the monarch's life.

The king is fully aware of the danger which will attend an operation at this time and knows that it is likely to kill him. Owing to the obstruction he has been unable for two or three days to take any food other than a small quantity of thin soup, and for this reason an operation is regarded as the only hope.

Eels Stop Mill Machinery.

Townsend, Del., Dec. 14.—The machinery in the flour mills of Records Brothers, near Townsend, stopped suddenly and an investigation showed that sixteen large eels were lodged in the machinery. It was necessary to remove the eels before the machinery could be started.

A certain member of Lord Kitchener's staff in India who had been married a few months previously applied for sick leave, which was readily granted. A couple of days afterward Lord Kitchener happened to meet the wife of the officer. She thanked him profusely for allowing her husband to go to the hills and explained that she was now in the midst of packing up. "But there is some mistake," said Kitchener. "When I gave Captain permission to go to the hills it was so that he might have a rest, and I am going to see that he gets it. If you go his leave will be canceled!"

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble is well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have achieved with this remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar bottles, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 11521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Massage Made Easy

Here's a Little Beauty Talk that it will Pay you to Read.

If you have tried to massage your face and neck with the usual amateur results on the part of amateurs at the art you will be interested in knowing that Crown Cream and the Beauty Cup at once overcome all difficulties, and really do more effective work than any hand operator can achieve. The Beauty Cup acts by a gentle vacuum system, and does its work carefully.

There is no other preparation made which acts so satisfactorily on thin dry skins as Crown Cream. From its very nature such a skin is prone to wrinkle. Each tiny fold, once created, becomes more and more deep seated, if let alone. There is neither sense nor reason in ignoring a wrinkle, because it can so easily be eradicated by the use of Crown Cream. The entire texture of the skin is cleaved and freshened, and by the use of the Beauty Cup, there is a vigorous renewal of proper circulation in the lower layers of the skin, thus building up a firmer tissue from beneath. This, will be seen, is a scientific manner in which to treat a wrinkle, or as many of them as you possess. Once overcome, very ordinary care will keep the face free from them thereafter. You can get both the Crown Cream and the Beauty Cup from all dealers, as a rule. If your dealer is not supplied, order direct from the Harlan Mfg. Co., Toledo, Ohio. The Crown Cream costs 50c a jar, and the Beauty Cup 50c each. For sale by the People's Drug Store.

All Out Of Sorts

Has Any Gettysburg Person Never Felt That Way?

Feel all out of sorts?
Tired, Blue, Irritable, Nervous?
Back feel lame and achy?
That's the story of sick kidneys—
Bad blood circulating about;
Uric acid poisoning the body.
Just one way to feel right again,
Cure the sluggish kidneys;
Do it with Doan's Kidney Pills.
Doan's have cured many Gettysburg people.
Here's one case:
Mrs. Anna Matthews, 44 Steinwehr Ave., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "It would be hard to describe the misery I endured from kidney disease, in fact it really seemed as if I had all the symptoms of this malady. My back ached severely and the pains were so intense at times as to make me feel miserable. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage and gave me much annoyance. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's drug store and used them according to directions. My back grew stronger in a short time, the kidney secretions were regulated and I felt better in every way."

WINAND-LEIB

John Parren Winand, of Lower Merion, and Miss Blanche Iona Leib, youngest daughter of Jonas Leib, of East Berlin, were married in the Lutheran parsonage at Abbottstown, Sunday, December 12, by Rev. A. C. Forscht.

Dentists who keep abreast of the times incline to the view that in these days of prepared—pre-masticated and predigested—foods folks do not have chewing enough to do to give their teeth the necessary exercise, it being their conception that foods of a rougher and harder type should form a larger part of the bill of fare. Pressure on the teeth in the process of mastication causes a circulation of blood in the little ducts near the roots, thus making possible a ready nourishment of the nerve and dental tissues. This argument would seem to have common sense at the bottom of it and ought to be kept in mind. It is likely due to this very fact, the mastication of rough and coarse foods, that the remarkable durability of the teeth of wild and domestic animals is due.

GRUB STAKED.

By KINGSBURY WELCH.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

"Jessie," said Tom Williston when she refused him, "if ever you get in a hole come to me to pull you out."

"That's very noble of you, Tom," she replied.
"Goodby."
"Goodby."

Two years passed. Jessie Mason became Mrs. Ashley, and her husband proved a ne'er-do-well. Everything he touched turned to dross, and, being of a speculative disposition, he concluded to go to the mining regions of the west and endeavor to gain a fortune all at once. Taking his wife and children, he went to the Silver State. There he spent a year at fruitless prospecting and was about at the end of his rope when a strike was made very near a claim he was working. There was now a chance for success provided he could develop his claim.

Not having means while doing so to keep his family from starvation, he tried to get funds from those who had struck the neighboring vein; but they, knowing of his condition and believing that he must soon abandon his claim for them to pick up, refused him.

One day Ashley told his wife of the straits he was in. Not only must they abandon prospective wealth, but starvation stared them in the face. Mrs. Ashley remembered Tom Williston's words at their parting and resolved to write him. She did so, telling her husband that she would apply to an old friend and they must wait a reply. Whether the friend was man or woman, relative or otherwise, she gave no information. Two days after the time required for a reply she received a letter from her old lover containing a check for double the loan she had asked. She had instructed the postmaster to hold her letters, to be delivered to her personally, and her husband knew nothing about the grub stake till she had drawn the money. Her letter to Williston had been forwarded to him at a mining town not fifty miles from where the Ashleys were located. Ashley was too bent on developing his claim to trouble himself about the source from whence his wife had secured the money. He worked more persistently than at anything he had ever undertaken and before his grub staking had been eaten up struck the vein that was paying so handsomely near by.

The men, who had hoped he would be starved out, on being convinced that he had struck an extension of their "lead" took him in for an equal share in a company organized on the whole property. This in two years' time made the Ashleys very rich.

Jessie Ashley repaid Williston the loan and made inquiries as to his financial condition, learning that the money he had sent her had come from the sale of a claim that had made the purchasers wealthy. Her informant reported that Williston was in moderate circumstances, but that he seemed to care little for gold or silver.

Ashley, vice president of the Stony Gulch Silver company, as soon as prosperity came put on all the airs of a newly made rich man. Moreover, he aspired to own all the silver property that was valuable in the state. He entered several claims of known value, in some using dummies, that it might not be known he was buying in the neighborhood, for if so he would be forced to pay more for other claims he wanted. It was reported that the title of one of the most valuable of his claims was disputed by another man. He at once rode over to a little mining camp called Arlington to look into the matter. There he met the claimant, became angered with him and insulted him.

"I'll make you a proposition," said the man coolly. "You have called me a rascal, thief, swindler and other insulting names. For this I must have satisfaction or leave the country, for the people here would not respect me if I didn't get it. I propose that we each sign a quitclaim deed to the property and the man who lives takes both deeds."

Ashley was somewhat cooled by the proposition, but could not very well decline it. Duels under the code were unknown among the rude people of the west, such affairs usually being settled on the moment. It was agreed that the principals, each armed with six shots, walk a mile, the one up, the other down, the road, return, and when they met they were to commence firing.

"Your name?" asked Ashley.

"Williston. And yours?"

"Ashley."

Williston turned pale. Ashley looked at him curiously, but as Williston recovered his outward equanimity thought no more about it. The two men separated and started in different directions. On their return they met near their starting point, awaited by a crowd of spectators. Ashley fired first. Williston stopped, shuddered, fired in the air and fell.

Ashley, returning, told his wife of the serious adventure that had befallen him and that he had been informed that his adversary was hanging between life and death.

"What was his name?" asked the wife.

"Williston."

Ashley saw a shiver pass over his wife; then she straightened and fell in a heap on the floor. Thunderstruck, he took her up and laid her on a sofa.

There is a grave in the Silver State that is carefully tended by the Ashleys, both husband and wife. Edward Ashley was made a new man by the story his wife revealed to him.

When Do Grange Dues Begin?

We are asked when a member should begin paying dues—at time of initiation or later. In New York he begins with the month succeeding the one in which he takes his first degree. The dues of charter members likewise begin the month following that in which the grange was organized. The subordinate grange does not pay dues to the state grange on a member until the quarter following that in which he was received into the grange, but does pay dues to the state grange on any names dropped during the quarter by death or expulsion.

Nervous Collapse

"I have traveled for thirty years continually. I lost a great deal of sleep, together with constant worry left me in such a nervous state that finally, after having two collapses of nervous prostration, I was obliged to give up traveling altogether. I doctored continually but with no relief. Dr. Miles' Nervine came to my rescue—I cannot describe the suffering which this Nervine saved me. Whenever I am particularly nervous a few doses relieve me."

A. G. C. LIBBY, Wells, Me.

There are many nervous wrecks. There is nervous prostration of the stomach, of the bowels, and other organs. The brain, the kidneys, the liver, the nerve centers are all exhausted. There is but one thing to do—build up the nervous system by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Its strengthening influence upon the nervous system restores normal action to the organs, and when they all work in harmony, health is assured. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.
